Overview

The federal government provides tax credits for investments in energy sources that generate electricity without emitting carbon dioxide in the process. The oil and gas industry receives tax deductions that pale in comparison to the vast sums of taxpayer money provided to wind and solar generators. The tax system often is used to provide incentives for investments in certain types of projects the government wants to encourage, including wind power projects. The Residential Clean Energy Credit equals 30% of the costs of new, qualified clean energy property for your. Wind power is a burgeoning power source in the U. electricity portfolio, supplying more than 10% of U. competitiveness by supporting early-stage. The US Department of the Treasury and the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) recently released Notice 2025-42 to implement Executive Order (EO) 14315.
